

The National Graduate Recruitment Conference 2010

The Grove Hotel, Hertfordshire Friday 17th September 2010

High Fliers Research is delighted to present its fourth national conference exclusively for graduate recruiters. With no suppliers, agencies or sponsors, this one-day event provides a unique forum for the UK's leading employers to discuss the latest developments in graduate recruitment, just before the start of the new university recruiting season. The conference programme includes:

- keynote addresses by:
 - James Darley Graduate Recruitment Director, Teach First
 - Adrian Thomas Head of Resourcing, Network Rail
 - Dr Paul Redmond Head of Careers & Employability, University of Liverpool
- a choice of 'insight' sessions, providing first-hand accounts of how some of the country's best-known employers approach their recruitment:
 - Steven Gard Recruitment Channel Manager, BT
 - Louise Clark Head of Recruitment & Marketing, GCHQ
 - Ben Hayward Graduate Recruitment Manager, L'Oréal
 - Stephanie Ahrens Director, EMEA Graduate Recruitment, Morgan Stanley
- the opportunity to meet student job hunters from the 'Class of 2011'
- 'Graduate Recruitment Question Time', debating the challenges for the year ahead with a panel of senior graduate recruiters:
 - Sarah Cockburn UK Graduate Resourcing Manager, BP
 - Rob Fryer Graduate Recruitment Manager, Deloitte
 - Clare Harris Associate Director, Legal Resourcing, Hogan Lovells
 - Helen Alkin Graduate Recruitment Manager, Marks & Spencer
 - Alex Bush National Lead, Graduate Management Training Scheme, NHS
- an exclusive preview of the graduate vacancies and starting salaries that Britain's top employers will be offering in 2011

The Grove, a contemporary five-star hotel just 30 minutes from central London, provides a convenient and prestigious setting for The National Graduate Recruitment Conference 2010. The delegate rate is £395+VAT which includes a three-course lunch in The Grove's Glasshouse Restaurant.
